Wednesday 8 – Saturday 11 September 2021

Psychodramatic Couple Therapy Training Course

You will learn a robust approach to couple therapy using psychodramatic methods. Learn to help couples connect and work towards their best hopes for their relationship and family. The workshops are experiential. In the training we use psychodramatic methods and principles we also use with the couples. This is a certificated course.

Twelve Days of Workshops over Two-years

This two-year training course is for health professionals to develop and extend their ability to work effectively with couples. The course design is flexible. Participants will attend a minimum of 12 days (90 hours) of workshops over two years. The two years start when you attend your first workshop, they are multi-level. Training includes workshops, reading, writing, peer practice and supervision. The hours count towards a psychodrama qualification and registration as a psychotherapist. See the Course Outline: psychodrama.org.nz/PCT-outline.pdf

Walter Logeman

The CITP is collaborating with a group of NZ trainers to offer this course. Walter Logeman will be the main trainer. He is a psychodrama Trainer, Educator and Practitioner (TEP), he has a postgraduate degree in social work and is a registered psychotherapist. Walter has conducted Working with Couples professional development workshops since 2009.
